

CAC/PIV Authenticator for the Atlassian Suite

This product was formerly known as Client Certificate Authenticator.

CAC/PKI is a special case of client certificate authentication, in which the client certificates are stored on PIN-protected smart cards. But from Goldfinger Holdings's point of view, the client certificate on a CAC/PKI card is simply made available through the browser.

The method described below will allow the following Atlassian solutions to use client certificates for authentication without a password. However, the users (and their group membership and permissions) must already exist.

License Request

Please create a License issue at Goldfinger Holdings's Service Desk with the following information to request for a trial license for each product:

1. Contact Information
 - a. Name
 - b. Email
 - c. Organization
2. Application of concern
 - a. How many users per application (based on application license)
3. Application Server Id
4. Application SEN Number
